

How do we work?

Who will help my firm?

HR Response work with many associates who specialise in a diverse range of HR Management. The lead consultant is Sarah Daniels MCIPD, who may on occasions recommend other professionals, such as an Employment Solicitor, to work with the client depending on the circumstances.

We endeavour to use quality consultants who emulate the professional service HR Response is renowned for.

Sarah Daniels; Chartered MCIPD

Sarah is a Principal Consultant and offers clear, down to earth advice and guidance on all issues relating to human resource management. Sarah also delivers specialist training to line managers and business owners in Employment Law and Human Resource Management.

Sarah has developed her skills and knowledge of human resource (HR) practice whilst working for large and small companies in the private, public, and voluntary sectors. Sarah's experience centres on developing core policies and procedures within an organisation promoting effective employee relations. This includes developing clear communication lines, and opportunities for staff development and progression. Sarah regularly sits in client management meetings adding value on the HR perspective helping clients make informed decisions regarding their HR strategies.

Sarah gained the majority of her experience in manufacturing and engineering, construction and, more recently, the care sector, and has delivered HR Management support for companies such as NatWest Bank, Perkins Foods, and Coats Viyella Clothing.

Sarah's thoughtful but creative nature allows her to think broadly about situations and by drawing on similar past experiences she develops step by step action plans to enable improvement.
